

Alcohol Program

State Hospital; however, a Hingham Court record check for this year identified only three such referrals and projected only 12 evaluation referrals annually.

Quincy Court was unable to provide any accurate numbers but stated that referrals are made by the Court Clinic — psychiatrists, psychologists, and social workers from the Dept. of Mental Health — in cooperation with the probation staff. Hingham Court also reported that a court clinic has recently become operational there.

The RFP was viewed by both courts as not reflecting their present needs and unnecessary at this time. Based on the court responses, the Council submitted an application for funding to the DMH Area Committee that included a review of the present ADA program with some modifications, as an alternative proposal, to satisfy the needs of the court clinics.

The target population of ADA, although school age, will be extended to serve young people up to the age of 26. The alternative proposal was extended to include education evaluation groups for youth or young adults who are out of school referred from the Court, and involvement of court referred youth who are in school with the presently existing school programs.

This proposal hasn't met with the approval of the Area Committee yet and the Council is still anxiously awaiting a positive change in their recommendation.

Dr. Munro is adamant that the program continue. "We're not going to let it die because we feel it's valuable," he said this week. Munroe and his team at the Council are busily trying to come up with funds for the program should the DMH discontinue the present contract after June 30.

Munro anticipates applying everywhere for money: to the towns, local organization, to the state division of alcoholism, to the National Institute of Drug Abuse (NIDA), to the National Institute of Alcohol and Alcoholism (NIAAA) and to any other place they can think of.

'The Secretary Bird' To Be Presented May 3, 4 And 5

'The Secretary Bird' has shifted into high gear this week.

A comedy by Britain's William Douglas Home, 'The Secretary Bird' was produced at the Savoy Theater in London in 1968. In addition to being an entertaining comedy, director Ubi DeBenedetto feels the play has a true literary quality.

Bob MacKay of Marshfield and Robin Lord of Cohasset play Hugh and Liz Walford, whose marriage has lost its romance. Bob Julian from Cohasset is John Brownlow, the erstwhile lover "well-known to be the handsomest man in London," with Donna Williams, also from Cohasset, in the role-within-a-role of Molly Forsyth, Hugh's lovely secretary. Lee Dunne of Scituate rounds out the five-character cast as Mrs. Gray, the housekeeper.

'The Secretary Bird' will be presented May 3, 4 and 5 at 8 p.m. at Town Hall. Tickets are $2.50 and may be purchased at the door or by calling 383-1736. Senior citizens are invited free to the opening performance May 3.

A special workshop in Figure Painting will be offered by the South Shore Art Center Saturday, April 28th, instructed by well-known artist Rosalind Farbush. The day will begin at 10 and end at 3 with a break for lunch.

Students should come ready to paint in their choice of medium. Ms. Farbush teaches at the School of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston and has exhibited widely.

Other classes still enrolling at the Center are college credit classes in sculpture with Egelson, Figure Painting with Lanza, Creative Drawing and Painting with Kalish and Tennis and childrens classes in Clay and Paint.

For further information, telephone 383-9548 between 12-4 Monday through Friday.
